God Walks With Me

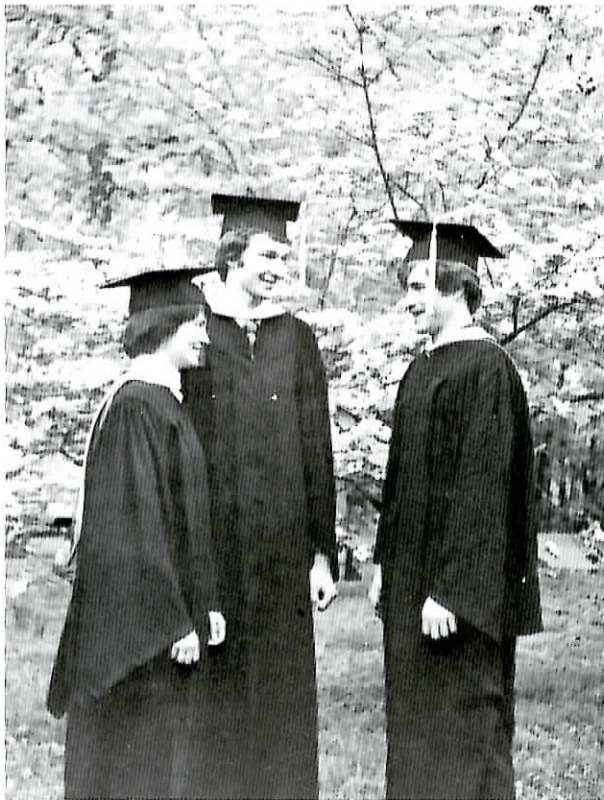

by Joan Ellen Meznar '78

As the time of my stay at Bryan comes to an end, and the time approaches when I must move on to new and different things, I can look back over my years here and see that they have been profitable ones. I've learned a lot. In my chosen field of study I've discovered that there is much, much more to be explored, and my curiosity has been pricked to the point that I want to continue exploring. I've met fine people, both professors and fellow students, and have been greatly enriched through contact with them. I've seen true Christian love evidenced in others, and realizing the lack in my own life, I have been encouraged in attempts to let Christ's love control me, also. But if I had to choose one area that stands out above all others at this time, I would say that my two-year stay at Bryan has been a time when I have learned to trust my heavenly Father beyond all human resources.

I have been learning over and over again the great truth of Psalm 37:5, which states: "Commit your way to the Lord, trust also in Him, and He will do it." I've always prided myself with being an independent person. I can look at problems and think of all sorts of ways of solving them. But I'm learning that the only way to get things done right, the only way to live a peaceful, satisfied life, is to let God do things for me. I haven't learned this lesson perfectly, but I have put God to the test several times, and He has always done far more for me than I could ever have done for myself, or than I expected Him to do. Sometimes I've been overwhelmed with God's goodness toward me, but I really shouldn't be so surprised, for Romans 8:32 states that "He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how will He not also with Him freely give us all things?" I'm part of God's family, He loved me enough to give His own Son for me, He wants to give me all things if I'll only commit my way to Him and let Him do it.

Well, I've said a lot of fairly general things, but now I'd like to get down to specifics, and give you one example of how God has provided for me. I was raised in Brazil, and ever since starting college have felt that the different kind of upbringing I experienced was one of my talents, which should therefore be put to use if I were to please my Master. I've felt that the empathy I experience toward a different nationality could best be put to use by working with them in their own environment, on their own level. But although I do understand Brazilians from living in their country, from going to school with them, from befriending them, I have a fairly superficial knowledge. I've felt I should look more into their past in order to understand some of their present problems and tensions. But on the undergraduate level one can merely get a taste of history, especially in any specialized area. To dig deeper one must go on. So, at the end of my junior year I began exploring the possibility of graduate work.

Joan Meznar is one of three graduate speakers chosen to represent the class of 1978 on the basis of speeches submitted in advance to a faculty committee. Joan's parents, Leonard '51 and Dona Blaine x'53 Meznar, have been missionaries in Brazil since 1958. They left their home on the outskirts of Rio de Janeiro on April 23 in time to attend their daughter's graduation and renew their own college memories of nearly thirty years ago.

Now, as most of you are well aware, a four-year college education can be quite expensive, and the prospect of one to four more years of study at institutions where tuition alone is more than total expenses at Bryan is a staggering thought. And then, there were so many places to choose from. With no real close family ties here in the United States to pull me into a certain region, it seemed as though the world was the limit. So I talked to some of my professors, and based partly on their advice, picked out five universities and applied. Here again I had to put into practice what I believed—"Commit your way to the Lord, trust also in Him, and He will do it."

I had to decide at the very beginning that I would expect God to direct, and therefore would not be disappointed at the results, knowing that He was in absolute control. Of the five universities, there was one which I had decided that if I were accepted there I would definitely go. It was the only one which rejected me. But how could I be disappointed? I'd committed my way to the Lord. Of the other four, I had some preferences, but no strong feelings toward any of them. Again I had to wait for God to direct, and much to my surprise, He did. I was offered a fellowship at Ohio State University so I would not have to pay tuition or fees, and would be granted a certain sum each month for rent, food, and other living expenses. All that was required of me was that I be a full-time student. Besides that, both the Chairman of the Department of History, and the senior professor of Latin American history at Ohio State are evangelical Christians. I had expected God to provide, but not in such an all-inclusive way. It's an exhilarating feeling, but also an awesome and sometimes even scary feeling to know that the almighty God of the universe is my Father, and is directing my way.

It's time to step out of the comfortable surroundings of Bryan. It's time to leave close Christian fellowship and head out into the world, where I must show God's care and concern through my life to those who don't know Him. It's pretty sad to leave friends who have encouraged and built me up in the Lord. It's sad to leave a place where I can go to teachers for advice and know I'll be getting good professional advice, and also good Christian advice. But as I think of all the sad parts of leaving Bryan, I'm reminded that as God walked with me here, He'll continue to walk with me at Ohio State, and wherever else He leads, and that promises to be an exciting, fulfilling life.

Sure, I've learned a lot at Bryan. I've learned from classes, I've learned from friends, I've learned from my far away family. But most of all I've learned that peace is something I can have right now if I just turn my way over to the Lord and let Him work things out.

News From The Past Decade

The Kerrs

The Crawfords

The Berwagers

PHYLLIS (DAVIS) KERR '68 and her daughter, Kandi, were scheduled to go to Rezaiyeh, Iran, under International Missions last fall as short term missionaries. They will fellowship with four other missionary families, and Phyllis will teach missionary children.

DAVID '69 and Sue CRAWFORD rejoice in their ministry in Korea, which includes teaching in the Korean Bible College with over 150 full-time students who are preparing to serve the Lord. On December 24 they celebrated the first anniversary of the completion of the "house for the Lord" in Soo Won, Korea, and were glad for twelve who were baptized during this first year. Each Sunday morning Sue directs a program over the Christian radio station HLKX in Seoul with interviews by various people who give testimonies and a study in Romans by the college president. Their daughter, Sonya, has started elementary school, and their son, D. J., is four. The family was recently spared injury in an auto accident, and the Lord has provided funds for the hospital care of the pedestrian who ran into the path of their auto.

WALLY DURHAM '69 made the "President's Council" this year (as he did two years ago) as a salesman in his sixth year with DuBois Chemicals, ranking in the top 15 among 1400 salespeople. His reward was a trip with his wife, Marilyn, to Puerto Rico in April. The Durhams and their son, Eric, who is 3, attend Shoaff Park Baptist Church in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DR. HAROLD '70 and DOREEN (GASSMAN) '70 JENKINS moved in June to Toledo, Ohio, where Harold was accepted to fill an opening for an emergency medicine resident at St. Vincent's Hospital, with a residency program that is one of the best in emergency medicine. They are pleased with fellowship in a local Bible-teaching church, a home on ten acres of fertile farm land that provided a garden to fill a freezer. Their children are Willis, who attends a local Christian nursery school two mornings a week, and Rose, who has mastered the art of walking and is now displaying a wobbly run.

John and JOYCE (WILSON) x'70 ALTFELTIS are living in the mountains near Carlisle, Pa., along with their daughter, Lorinda, 8, and son, Jimmy, 1.

HARVEY x'70 and IRENE (WILSON) x'69 KLAMM have a full schedule in Lynchburg, Va., where Harvey completed his third season in coaching the J.V. basketball team at Lynchburg Christian Academy in a 10-2 record, plus winning an invitational tournament, bringing his record to 50-8 for three years. He is also working on his master's degree in physical education at the University of Virginia. Irene is part-time nurse at Virginia Baptist Hospital plus full-time homemaker for the family including two daughters, Annette, 5, and Christy, 1.

TOM '70 and ANN (BURKETT) '69 KEEFER, who completed a tour of military duty in Germany last year, are living in Columbia, S.C., where Tom is enrolled in the three-year Master of Divinity program in the graduate school of Bible and Missions. Ann is working as a secretary in the Bible College. The Keefers have applied to Bible Christian Union to return to Germany as missionaries.

ALAN '71 and Linda DOLLAR moved in January to Goshen, Ind., from Nashville, Tenn. Alan has taken the position of associate pastor of the Sugar Grove Church in Goshen.

LUCIEN DAIGNEAULT '71 had his teaching contract terminated by a school board in Palmyra, Ill., after leading a 13-year-old girl to Christ during a recess period. The girl's parents have expressed pleasure at their daughter's conversion. A local pastor is circulating petitions asking the board to reverse its decision, as reported in The Presbyterian Journal of April 19, 1978.

JACK '71 and ESTHER (OCKERS) x'72 LILLEY anticipated being in Costa Rica by May 1 to begin study at the Spanish Language Institute as the next step in their move toward Venezuela under TEAM, accompanied by their children, John and Jenny.

HARRIET HEDGBETH x'71 is an ordained Methodist minister who has two churches, one at Clockville and the other at Perryville in upper New York state.

LLEWELLYN HEDGBETH x'72 defended her dissertation on "Extant American Panoramas" at New York University on October 1, taking time out from her studies at Washington and Lee Law School to do so. She lives in Lexington, Va.

NED '71 and SHARON (HARTSHORN) x'74 BERWAGER visited Bryan with their two daughters, Michelle and Beth, late in March. Ned is teaching science in 7th, 9th, and 10th grades in Camp Springs Christian School in Maryland.

DAVID BYERLY '72 of Dayton, Tenn., is teaching at Rhea Central Elementary School and also working on a master's degree in social science education at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

RICK '73 and MARILYN (CRANDALL) '70 SPEECE with one-year-old Benjamin left the States from Miami to visit Los Angeles, Honolulu, Seoul, Manila, and Port Moresby on their way to start the South Pacific Field Training Course (Jungle Camp) on March 8 in Papua New Guinea under Wycliffe Bible Translators.

DANN '73 and LINDA (HOWARD) '73 Speichinger were pleased to have a trip to Michigan to be with family and friends at Christmas time. Back at school in Teec Nos Pos, Arizona, Dann planned their Inter-Mission Tournament, when their basketball team competed with four other schools in February. The same week they held special meetings for the children under the Immanuel Mission with Dave Steifler and his wife ministering.

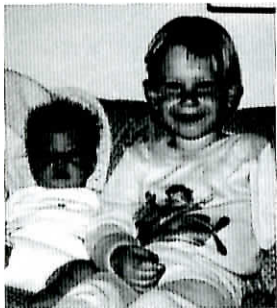

GENE sp.'73 and LYNN (PUFFER) '73 JORDAN have been assigned by Missionary Aviation Fellowship to work in Ecuador, where Gene grew up as the son of missionaries Gene and Ruth Jordan. The senior Jordans are in their 27th year of service with radio station HCJB in Quito.

Bruce and JANE (CROSBIE) '73 BLOXUM live in Oakhurst, N.J., where Jane continues to teach in the Old Mill School in Wall Township. The Bloxums were married in June 1975.

ERICK BIRKETT '74 expects to complete next spring his third year of multi-level teaching at the Henry Opukahaia School in Hilo, Hawaii, a tuition-supported independent Bible-oriented K-10 school. His winter plans included marriage to Deborah Lynn Meyer on

IN MEMORIAM

Wayne E. Smith

WAYNE E. SMITH '41 was called during his sleep on February 6 to his heavenly home from Camp Verde, Arizona, just one day after his 65th birthday. Following his graduation from Bryan in 1941, he worked for Reynolds Metals Company and from 1946 until 1974 as a carpenter. He was also active in the Lord's work and in 1953 became pastor of the Carol Avenue Baptist Church in Phoenix, Arizona. He is survived by his wife, Sally, and their two-year-old son, Wayne Thomas, and by five children from his previous marriage.
